TXM Technology, part of TXM Recruit, is an established specialist recruitment consultancy with a proactive, dynamic approach to permanent and contract recruitment solutions within the Finance, Aerospace, Automotive, Built Environment, Defence, Rail, IT & Technology, General Engineering and Turnkey Projects industries. The TXM Technology team can fulfil recruitment needs across the full project cycle.

The whole TXM Group prides itself on its bespoke design to recruitment solutions, both benefitting clients and candidates. The group's approach is consultative which maintains our brand promise to always "Go The Xtra Mile."

With over ten years client facing experience, Richard progressed into a career within IT recruitment and has built a reputation as a professional recruitment consultant. He has dedicated himself to account management and the skills needed to deliver a positive and collaborative solution for all involved.

He works closely with his clients to understand their needs, and delivers a bespoke service designed to save clients time, money and pain.

With his career background and a strong team around him, Richard is able to deliver on time and achieve the level of success and service delivery expected of TXM Technology.

The technologies Richard's division operates within includes but is not limited to; Infrastructure, Project Management, Platforms, Digital, Engineering, Testing, IT Security and Storage across all industry verticals. This cross-industry coverage provides the team with a current and live candidate pool to draw upon.

With the IT market being candidate driven, there is a significant emphasis on networking to deliver the best talent in the market and not those just available using traditional and mainstream recruitment methods.

Richard believes in a very structured, open and honest recruitment process with clear channels of communication, which is essential to both clients and candidates, updating both parties at regular intervals to manage expectations and mitigate any risk.

Outside of work, Richard is a keen cyclist and likes to explore new places, always keeping an eye out for a bargain, and most of all, he enjoys spending time with his nearest and dearest.
